Travel guests with food preferences or food allergies.

The Colavita Tour organizers can neither control nor guarantee the food ingredients or preparation techniques used by the chefs in Italy to prepare the regional cuisines that will be sampled throughout the trip. All menus will be prearranged by the local restaurants to accommodate our group. Meals will include a salad, vegetable, meat or fish, pasta or risotto, dessert and coffee. Therefore, the Colavita Tour organizers recommend that guests who are allergic to specific food ingredients should, unfortunately, consider other travel options for their own safety. Travel guests who do not eat fish or are vegetarians should inform the Tour organizers no later than 30 days before departure and arrangements will be made to accommodate those requests. Once in Italy, we cannot be expected to make these changes.

Certain responsibilities of Travel Guests:

Each travel guest must have a current passport valid through November 10, 2006. Those not traveling with a U.S. passport should contact the closest Italian consulate to determine if a visa is required.

The Colavita Tour organizers are not responsible for missed connections to Newark Airport or any other circumstances that may prevent travel guests from failing to board in time for departure. Should this situation occur, the Tour organizers will attempt to make alternate arrangements; however, no refunds will be provided and travel guests will be responsible for any additional costs incurred.

Each travel guest must be responsible for packing the appropriate clothing and footwear. Formal clothing or dinner jackets are not required.
